I, _____, understand in applying for a dealership that I must order two freight orders within a 12 month time period. I understand that I have the option to order both orders all up front, or at two separate times. If I do not ever place the second order, I understand that I will receive a bill for the difference in the dealer pricing and the direct customer pricing. Payment will be due within 30 days to avoid finance charges. At that time the dealership contract will be cancelled immediately. In order to receive dealer pricing again in the future, I would have to complete a new Dealership Application. There is no guarantee that a dealership will be approved.
